MESSI INDIA TOUR

Chaos in Kolkata as fans protest after missing glimpse of Messi

Fans who had paid hefty prices for the event expressed their frustration while talking to the media. "It was really disappointing, we came all the way from Darjeeling for this. We couldn't even see him properly, and that was the most disappointing thing I have ever witnessed," said a fan.

KOLKATA

Chaos broke out at Kolkata's Salt Lake Stadium on Saturday when thousands of spectators, who had paid steep ticket prices to see football legend Lionel Messi, protested after failing to get a clear view of him. Messi, in the city as part of his three-day, four-city GOAT India Tour 2025, entered the stadium around 11.30 am with Luis Suárez and Rodrigo De Paul, briefly walked on the turf, waved to the crowd and acknowledged fans amid loud chants and emotional scenes.

The packed stadium echoed with applause as Messi smiled, waved and was presented with a Mohun Bagan jersey bearing his name and iconic No. 10. However, throughout his short appearance, he remained surrounded by VIPs, organisers and heavy security, obstructing the view for spectators in the galleries. Fans alleged they could not see him clearly, either directly or on the giant screens, despite waiting since morning.

Anger intensified when Messi was escorted out within minutes. Disappointed fans threw bottles onto the field, damaged banners and chairs, and some attempted to breach barricades, forcing police to intervene.

Satadru Datta, promoter and chief organiser of the Kolkata leg of Messi's GOAT India Tour 2025, was detained at the airport, where he had gone to see off the football legend and his entourage on their way to Hyderabad.

TMC, BJP slam organisers for chaos

Both ruling Trinamool Congress and opposition BJP lashed out at the organisers of an event of Lionel Messi in Salt Lake stadium on Saturday, which ended in chaos as irate spectators went on a vandalisation spree for not having a proper view of the football icon.

- West Bengal Governor C V Ananda Bose has sought a detailed report from the state government on the arrangements for Messi's Kolkata programme.
- Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee expressed shock over the mismanagement and announced a high-level inquiry headed by retired Justice Ashim Kumar Ray to fix responsibility and suggest corrective steps. She also apologised to Messi and the fans.

Kerala local body polls: BJP scores historic win in Thiruvananthapuram

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The BJP-led NDA registered a landmark victory in the Kerala local body polls by winning the Thiruvananthapuram Corporation, ending 45 years of uninterrupted Left rule in the state capital. The result is seen as a significant morale booster for the BJP ahead of the 2026 Assembly elections, particularly in Thiruvananthapuram.

In the 101-member Thiruvananthapuram Corporation, the BJP won 50 wards, while the CPI(M)-led LDF secured 29, the Congress-led UDF 19, and independents won two. The BJP fell just one seat short of an absolute majority.

The NDA also retained the Palakkad municipality after a close contest with the UDF and wrested the Thrippunithura Municipality from the Congress. In Thrissur district, where BJP leader Suresh Gopi won the Lok Sabha seat last year, the party made notable gains, winning 18 of 46 wards in Kodungallur Municipality, eight in Thrissur Corporation, seven in Kunnamkulam, six in Irinjalakuda, two each in Guruvayoor and Vadakkancherry, and one in Chalakudy Municipality.

I express my gratitude to the people of Kerala who voted for the BJP-NDA candidates in the local body elections in the state. Kerala has been enduring the UDF and LDF.

Priyanka questions proposed MGNREGA renaming

NEW DELHI

Congress MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Saturday criticised the Centre's reported decision to rename the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA), saying it would result in needless expenditure without offering any tangible benefit. Her remarks followed the Union Cabinet's approval of a Bill proposing to rename the scheme as the 'Poojya Bapu Grameen Rozgar Yojna' and increase guaranteed workdays from 100 to 125 annually.

Speaking to reporters, Priyanka Gandhi questioned the rationale behind altering the name of a flagship rural employment programme enacted in 2005. She argued that changing Mahatma Gandhi's name would require rebranding across offices, stationery and official records, leading to a costly and unnecessary exercise. "What is the benefit of doing this?" she asked. MGNREGA remains one of India's largest social welfare schemes, providing wage employment to rural households and ensuring livelihood security.

Ex-IAF officer held in Assam over alleged Pak links

NEW DELHI

A retired Indian Air Force officer was arrested in Assam on charges of maintaining links with Pakistani operatives, even as police in neighbouring Arunachal Pradesh detained four Kashmiri residents in a separate espionage-related case. The arrests have raised serious concerns over national security in the region.

The former IAF personnel, identified as Kulendra Sarma, a retired Junior Warrant Officer, was taken into custody late Friday night from Tezpur's Patia locality in Assam's Sonitpur district. Investigators suspect that Sarma shared sensitive and classified information with Pakistani handlers. His laptop and mobile phone have been seized and sent for forensic analysis to determine the extent of the alleged information leak.

Sonitpur Superintendent of Police Barun Purkayastha said Sarma had been under surveillance for several weeks following credible intelligence inputs. Police initially placed him under technical monitoring and moved in for the arrest after gathering sufficient evidence. Authorities are now probing whether Sarma had local accomplices and have registered a case under relevant provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita.

Sarma retired from the Indian Air Force in 2002, with his last posting at the strategically important Air Force Station in Tezpur, which houses key air assets, including a Sukhoi-30 squadron. He later worked briefly at Tezpur University.

EU freezes Russian assets indefinitely

BRUSSELS

The European Union has agreed to indefinitely freeze Russian central bank assets held in Europe, clearing a major hurdle to using the funds to support Ukraine. The decision covers about €210 billion in Russian sovereign assets immobilised since Moscow's 2022 invasion. By ending the need for six-monthly renewals, the EU removed the risk of dissent from member states with closer ties to Russia. The move is aimed at enabling a proposed loan of up to €165 billion to Ukraine for military and civilian needs in 2026–27, to be repaid only if Russia pays war damages. Ukraine hailed the decision as a landmark step toward accountability, while Russia's central bank called it illegal and warned of legal action.

Each ₹7.22 lakh Ashok Leyland DOST XL HSD vehicle, BS-VI compliant, ensures efficient, safe, and rapid accident site operations

BENGALURU

Karnataka has launched "Accident Emergency Response Vehicles" to provide swift assistance during road accidents and bus breakdowns. The initiative was flagged off on Saturday by Transport and Muzrai Minister Sri Ramalinga Reddy, aiming to reduce public inconvenience and ensure quick support for drivers, conductors, and passengers.

The new vehicles will function as mobile workshops, equipped with spare parts and necessary tools to repair buses immediately at accident or breakdown sites. Two vehicles have already been deployed at Bengaluru and Mysuru central locations, covering nearby districts including Tumakuru, Kolar, Chikkaballapur, Mandya, and surrounding areas. By the end of January 2026, an additional 10 vehicles will be introduced across other districts in a phased manner.

These vehicles will assist buses operating from Kempegowda Bus Stand and Mysuru Road Bus Stand, which serve multiple destinations within the state and interstate routes. They are designed to resolve traffic congestion caused by bus breakdowns and provide emergency help, including shifting injured persons to the nearest hospital.

Each vehicle, costing ₹7.22 lakh, is an Ashok Leyland DOST XL High Side Deck (HSD) model with BS-VI emission standards. It features a turbocharged diesel engine, high fuel efficiency, and a high side deck for safe transport of materials. These specifications ensure that technical teams can reach accident sites quickly and operate efficiently.

Karnataka invites tenders for second airport

BENGALURU

Minister Patil stated firms with five prior projects and ₹250 crore annual works can apply; study will assess environment, approvals, land, and airport impacts on tourism and industry.

The Karnataka government has invited tenders to select a consultancy firm to prepare a technical and economic feasibility report for a proposed second international airport near Bengaluru, Infrastructure Development Minister M.B. Patil announced today. The last date for applications is January 12, 2026.

The State Industrial and Infrastructure Development Corporation will oversee the selection of the firm, which will conduct a detailed study of three potential sites: Choodahalli, Somanahalli, and Nelamangala along Kanakapura Road. A preliminary inspection by a high-level team from the Airports Authority of India has already been completed. The selected firm is expected to submit a comprehensive report within five months.

Minister Patil said that firms with at least five prior consultancy projects in the sector and annual works worth Rs. 250 crore in the past five years are eligible to apply. The study will examine rainfall, topography, electricity, water, sewage, waste management, noise, pollution, surrounding population, and development potential. It will also analyze land requirements, necessary approvals from the Ministry of Defence and DGCA, and the airport's impact on tourism, industry, and passenger movement.

The consultancy will also evaluate existing transport connections, infrastructure development needs, freight and passenger services, and overall economic viability. The final recommendation will identify the most suitable location among the three sites.

Patil emphasized the urgency of the project, noting that Kempegowda International Airport is currently the second busiest in India, and a new airport will be necessary by 2033. "New Delhi and Mumbai already have two airports. Bengaluru needs to prepare for the future," he said, adding that decisions on construction will follow once the feasibility report is completed.

Officials noted that this initiative is part of Karnataka's long-term plan to improve infrastructure, boost economic growth, and accommodate increasing passenger and freight traffic in the coming decade.

City police appreciated citizens' cooperation in clearing dues, attributing higher collections to awareness and convenient digital payment platforms

Bengaluru traffic fine rebate nets ₹27 crore in 22 days

BENGALURU

The city's traffic department has collected nearly ₹27 crore as motorists rushed to take advantage of a 50 per cent rebate on pending traffic fines. The scheme, launched on November 21 and running until December 12, 2025, encouraged vehicle owners to pay only half of their accumulated penalties, helping clear a massive backlog of unpaid fines.

During the 22-day campaign, around 9.5 lakh traffic violations were settled across Bengaluru, with a single day—December 12—seeing ₹4.53 crore paid for 1.56 lakh challans. Officials said the scheme eased the financial burden on citizens while improving compliance and reducing pending cases.

City police expressed appreciation for the public's cooperation, highlighting how citizens voluntarily cleared dues, demonstrating responsibility and accountability. They also credited the higher collections to improved awareness and convenient digital payment platforms, including the KSP app, BTP ASTraM app, Karnataka One, Bangalore One, and various walk-in centres.

The current collection of ₹26.97 crore is a significant increase compared to ₹5.6 crore raised during a similar 2023 drive. Earlier this year, a 50 per cent rebate between August 21 and September 12 saw an even larger response, with ₹95.77 crore collected and over 34 lakh challans cleared. Several prominent leaders also participated in the campaign. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah paid ₹2,500 to settle seven traffic violations linked to official vehicles, while BJP state president B Y Vijayendra cleared ten cases by paying ₹3,250.

The traffic department said the success of the scheme highlights the importance of public cooperation and responsible civic behavior. Authorities urged citizens to continue following traffic rules to maintain safety on Bengaluru's busy roads.

Alternative route opened to ease traffic in Kempegowda Layout

KENGERI

Motorists in Kempegowda Layout now have an alternative route to avoid traffic congestion caused by ongoing railway underpass construction near Ramo Halli Cross on Dodda Ala Mara Connection Road, officials said.

Traffic had increased significantly on Bhimana Kuppe village road due to vehicles diverting from the Bangalore-Mysore Road, creating noise pollution and inconvenience for local residents.

Following requests from citizens to the MLA, the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) acted promptly to provide a solution.

BDA Executive Engineer Ashok confirmed that, under the guidance of MLA S.T. Somashekar, a new road in Kempegowda Layout has been repaired to serve as an alternative route. Vehicles coming from the Challagaghatta route can now move through Bhimana Kuppe to reach Kempegowda Layout, ensuring smoother traffic flow and reducing disruption for local residents.

Former president of Ramo Halli Gram Panchayat B.H. Prabhu explained that the alternative route would ease congestion while construction continues on the underpass. Local leaders Narahari, Rangaanath, Renukappa, and Naganna were also present during the inspection and announcement.

The initiative aims to balance the needs of commuters with the concerns of villagers, providing a practical solution to traffic challenges while infrastructure improvements continue in the area.

Authorities assured that all necessary measures are being taken for smooth movement of vehicles.

KAT Stays Senior Geologist Transfer, Sparks Debate Over Govt Handling

The Karnataka Administrative Tribunal stayed a senior geologist's transfer, triggering debate over administrative decisions and the State's legal approach.

MANGALURU

The Karnataka Administrative Tribunal (KAT) has issued an interim stay on the transfer of Girish Mohan S N, Deputy Director (Senior Geologist) in the Department of Mines and Geology, who was recently transferred from Mangaluru to Karwar. The tribunal's order has set off discussions within government and legal circles, raising questions about the administration's handling of transfers and its response to sensitive service-related disputes.

Girish Mohan had approached the tribunal challenging the transfer order, citing personal hardship and administrative concerns. He submitted that his wife is employed in Maddur, Mandya district, and that a posting to Karwar would impose an unreasonable burden on their family life due to the geographical distance involved. His counsel further argued that the Mangaluru post continues to remain vacant and that relieving him without posting a replacement could adversely impact ongoing departmental work in the region.

The application has been registered as Application No. 4355/2025 before the Karnataka Administrative Tribunal. After hearing the applicant's submissions, the tribunal directed the State government and the Director of Mines and Geology to maintain status quo with respect to the transfer until further orders. The interim relief effectively allows Girish Mohan to continue at his present posting in Mangaluru.

In its interim order, the tribunal took note of the grounds raised by the applicant, particularly those relating to family separation and the vacancy at his current station. The bench granted the State additional time to file its reply and extended the status quo on the transfer. The matter has now been posted for the next hearing on January 11, 2026.

Vande Bharat Express Likely on Bengaluru–Coastal Karnataka Route After Ghat Electrification

Union Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw indicated plans to introduce Vande Bharat services to coastal Karnataka after electrification completion.

UDUPI

In a significant development for railway passengers in coastal Karnataka, Union Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw has said that steps will be taken to operate the Vande Bharat Express from Bengaluru to Mangaluru, Udupi, and Karwar after the completion of electrification work in the ghat section. The announcement has raised hopes of faster and more comfortable rail connectivity between the State capital and the coastal belt.

The assurance was given during a meeting in New Delhi between Vaishnaw and Udupi–Chikkamagaluru Member of Parliament Kota Srinivas Poojary, who submitted a detailed memorandum highlighting the long-standing demand for a Vande Bharat service on the Bengaluru–coastal Karnataka route. The MP stressed the importance of the train in improving travel efficiency, boosting tourism, and supporting economic activity in the region.

In his representation, Poojary pointed out that the electrification work in the Hassan and Sakleshpur sections is nearing completion. He noted that the Sakleshpur ghat section, which has historically posed technical and operational challenges due to its terrain, is a crucial link for rail connectivity between Bengaluru and the coast. With electrification progressing steadily, he said the time was ripe to plan the introduction of modern, high-speed semi-bullet services like the Vande Bharat Express.

Responding positively to the request, the Union Railway Minister said that once electrification of the Sakleshpur ghat section is completed, rail services between Bengaluru and Karwar would see significant improvement. He added that the Railways would consider operating the Vande Bharat Express on this route to cater to passenger demand and enhance travel experience.

At present, passengers travelling between Bengaluru and coastal districts such as Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, and Uttara Kannada largely depend on overnight trains and long-duration journeys. Introduction of the Vande Bharat Express is expected to substantially reduce travel time while offering world-class amenities, thereby benefiting daily commuters, business travellers, students, and tourists alike.

An astrologer from Belthangady was arrested and later granted bail following serious harassment and coercion allegations by a woman.

Astrologer Arrested, Released on Bail Over Harassment and Coercion Allegations

UPPINANGADY

Sheshagiri Bhat, an astrologer practicing in Tekkara village of Belthangady taluk, was arrested by the Uppinangady police following allegations of harassment, coercion, and intimidation made by a local woman and her family. He was later produced before a court and released on bail, police sources confirmed.

According to the formal complaint lodged by the woman's family, they had initially approached Bhat for astrological guidance to examine the woman's horoscope. Bhat, a native of Sirsi, was reportedly associated with a local temple while also practicing astrology in the region. What began as a routine consultation allegedly took a disturbing turn after the horoscope examination.

The complainants alleged that Bhat subsequently contacted the family, claiming that certain astrological defects were present and that specific rituals were necessary to resolve them. During this period, he is accused of pressuring the woman to marry him, a proposal that was firmly rejected by both the woman and her family. Despite their repeated refusals, Bhat allegedly continued to pursue the matter, subjecting the woman to persistent harassment and coercive behavior.

The family further claimed that the astrologer's actions escalated over time. They alleged that he resorted to intimidation tactics and was involved in the arson of their cattle shed, causing further distress and fear. Following an initial complaint, the Uppinangady police reportedly summoned Bhat and issued a warning, advising him to cease all contact with the family.

However, the complainants alleged that Bhat ignored the police warning and continued his actions. Sagara Bandh on Dec 17 Seeking District Status, Says Struggle Committee

SAGARA

A bandh will be observed in Sagara on December 17 demanding that the town be declared a district headquarters, according to T.N. Srinivas of the Sagara District Struggle Committee. Addressing a press conference, he said the shutdown is being organised to pressurise the government, which has allegedly failed to respond adequately to the long-pending demand.

Srinivas stated that the demand to make Sagara a separate district has been raised repeatedly by the people and various organisations over the years. However, he alleged that the State government has not taken concrete steps or shown the required seriousness in addressing the issue. The bandh is being called to draw the attention of the government and ensure that our legitimate demand is not ignored any longer, he said.

He added that several organisations, associations, and community groups have extended their support to the Sagara Bandh, reflecting widespread public backing for the demand. The struggle committee has appealed to traders, transporters, educational institutions, and the general public to cooperate and make the bandh a success.

Highlighting regional disparities, Srinivas pointed out that Sagara has lagged behind neighbouring taluks such as Thirthahalli and Shikaripura in terms of development. He argued that if Sagara is granted district status, it would lead to improved administration, better infrastructure, enhanced public services, and overall economic growth. District status will accelerate development and address long-standing issues faced by the people of this region, he said.

Petrol Tanker, Gajanana Bus Collide Near Ripponpete; Woman Seriously Injured

RIPPONPETE

A head-on collision between a petrol tanker and a Gajanana bus near Koduru, close to Ripponpete, was reported on Saturday morning, resulting in injuries to several passengers, including a woman who sustained serious head injuries. The incident caused panic among commuters and briefly disrupted traffic movement on the stretch.

According to preliminary information, the petrol tanker and the private bus collided head-on under circumstances that are yet to be fully ascertained. At the time of the accident, the bus was carrying students along with other passengers. While most of them escaped with minor injuries, one woman passenger suffered severe injuries to her head and was stated to be in critical condition.

Eyewitnesses said the impact of the collision was strong, causing panic inside the bus. Students and passengers were thrown off balance, leading to minor cuts and bruises. The seriously injured woman was found unconscious at the scene, prompting immediate rescue efforts.

Local residents, along with passengers from vehicles passing by, rushed to the spot upon hearing the impact. They extended first aid and helped in shifting the injured to nearby hospitals without delay. Ambulances were later pressed into service to transport the injured for further treatment.

Police reached the scene soon after receiving information and initiated an inquiry into the cause of the accident. Preliminary observations suggest that negligence or loss of control by one of the drivers may have led to the collision, though officials said a detailed investigation is underway to determine responsibility.

Fortunately, there was no leakage of fuel from the tanker, averting a potentially major disaster. Authorities ensured that safety measures were taken to clear the vehicles from the road and regulate traffic.

The condition of the seriously injured woman is being closely monitored by doctors. Police have registered a case and are collecting statements from the drivers and eyewitnesses as part of the investigation.

Farmers can avail 80 percent subsidy for solar pump sets

80% Subsidy Offered for Solar Pump Sets Under Kusum Scheme; Applications Open Till December 31

BHALKI

Farmers are being encouraged to adopt renewable energy solutions as the Central government is offering an 80 percent subsidy for solar pump sets under the Kusum (Kisan Urja Suraksha evam Utthaan Mahabhiyan) scheme. The last date to apply for the subsidy has been fixed as December 31, officials said.

Providing information in the town, Assistant Director (AD) Mallikarjuna Yaraba said the scheme aims to reduce farmers' dependence on conventional electricity and diesel-powered pumps while promoting clean and sustainable energy in the agricultural sector. Solar pump sets not only help farmers save on recurring fuel and power costs but also ensure uninterrupted water supply for irrigation, especially in rural areas facing erratic power availability.

Under the Kusum scheme, eligible farmers will receive up to 80 percent financial assistance for installing solar-powered irrigation pump sets. The remaining cost is to be borne by the beneficiary, either through self-financing or institutional support as per guidelines. The subsidy is directly linked to approved applications, ensuring transparency and timely benefits.

AD Mallikarjuna Yaraba urged interested farmers to submit their applications well before the deadline to avoid last-minute issues. He advised farmers to approach the concerned agriculture or renewable energy offices for detailed guidance on eligibility criteria, required documents, and the application process. Necessary documents typically include land records, identity proof, and bank account details, among others.

Officials said the scheme is particularly beneficial for small and marginal farmers, as it reduces long-term irrigation costs and protects them from rising fuel prices. Solar pump sets are also environmentally friendly, contributing to reduced carbon emissions and sustainable agricultural practices.

DCM assures Cauvery water supply for Bengaluru Rural

Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar assured priority for Cauvery water, Yettinahole project and Metro connectivity to Bengaluru Rural

DEVANAHALLI

Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar assured that top priority would be given to providing Cauvery drinking water, Yettinahole project water, and Metro rail connectivity to Bengaluru Rural district. He was speaking after inaugurating the newly constructed office building of the Bengaluru International Airport Area Planning Authority (BIAAPA) at Ambika Layout on Sulibele Road in Devanahalli town.

The new BIAAPA office building has been constructed at an estimated cost of ₹6.45 crore by the Public Works Department and the Urban Development Department, Bengaluru Rural district. Inaugurating the facility, Shivakumar said the government is committed to ensuring balanced development in areas surrounding Bengaluru, especially fast-growing regions like Devanahalli.

Referring to water supply issues, the Deputy CM said Bengaluru Rural district incharge Minister K.H. Muniyappa has been consistently pressing for improved drinking water supply. Minister Muniyappa has been demanding that Yettinahole and Cauvery water must be provided to this region. He raises the issue in every Cabinet meeting, and we will fulfil this demand, Shivakumar said.

He also recalled that after taking charge as Irrigation Minister earlier, he had issued a new government order earmarking six TMC of water exclusively for Bengaluru city. Stressing the importance of long-term planning, he said drinking water projects must be prioritised to meet the needs of a rapidly growing population.

Sharing his role in the airport project, Shivakumar said that during his tenure as Urban Development Minister between 2002 and 2004, he had signed the file to establish the Airport Area Planning Authority. At that time, there was a debate on whether the airport should come up in Bidadi or Devanahalli. Leaders like Muninarasimhaiah, Ramaiah and Bacche Gowda convinced farmers and ensured that the airport was built in Devanahalli, he recalled. He noted that 2,400 acres of land were acquired for the airport and that former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee was invited for the groundbreaking ceremony at Vidhana Soudha.

DKS to become CM on January 6, claims MLA Iqbal Hussain

Ramanagara MLA Iqbal Hussain claimed that the Deputy Chief Minister will assume charge as Chief Minister on January 6

RAMANAGARA

Congress MLA Iqbal Hussain claimed that the Deputy Chief Minister of Karnataka would take over as the State's Chief Minister on January 6. He made the statement while speaking to reporters in Ramanagara, triggering fresh political speculation and debate within the State's political circles.

Iqbal Hussain asserted that discussions within the party indicate a leadership transition at the top level of the State government early next year. On January 6, the Deputy Chief Minister will become the Chief Minister of the State, he said, expressing confidence in his claim. However, he did not provide further details on the circumstances or official confirmation surrounding the alleged change.

The MLA's remarks have sparked widespread discussion, especially amid ongoing speculation about power-sharing arrangements within the ruling Congress party in Karnataka. While party leaders at the State level have repeatedly stated that there is no immediate plan for a leadership change, statements such as these have continued to fuel political chatter.

Iqbal Hussain maintained that the leadership transition would be smooth and in the best interests of the State. He said the Congress government remains united and focused on governance, welfare schemes, and development, regardless of speculation. According to him, the party leadership at the national level is fully aware of developments in the State.

Political observers note that such statements often emerge during periods of internal discussion within parties but stress that any decision regarding a change in the Chief Minister would be taken by the party high command. So far, there has been no official response from the Deputy Chief Minister, the Chief Minister, or the Congress leadership to the claim made by the Ramanagara MLA.

The opposition parties were quick to react, accusing the ruling party of instability and internal power struggles. They alleged that repeated statements about leadership change create uncertainty and distract the government from focusing on administrative responsibilities.

Responding to the concerns, Darshan Puttannaiah assured the villagers that their problems would be raised at the appropriate forums. He said that while development and industrial activity are important, they should not come at the cost of people's livelihoods and environmental safety. Congress Criticizes India's Exclusion From US Silicon Alliance

India has been left out of the new US-led global silicon supply chain initiative

NEW DELHI

The Congress on Saturday expressed concern over India's exclusion from the nine-nation Pax Silica alliance, describing it as a missed strategic opportunity. Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh said it would have benefited India to be part of the grouping, which aims to reduce Chinese dominance in high-tech supply chains. The alliance includes the United States, Japan, South Korea, Singapore, the Netherlands, the United Kingdom, Israel, the United Arab Emirates, and Australia, with India being the only QUAD member left out.

Ramesh linked India's exclusion to a "sharp downturn" in ties between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and US President Donald Trump since May 10, 2025. This development came a day after Modi spoke about a "warm and engaging" phone call with his "once-upon-a-time good friend."

According to the US State Department, Pax Silica focuses on cooperation among trusted allies to create a secure, resilient, and innovation-driven silicon supply chain. The initiative is intended to safeguard materials critical to artificial intelligence and reduce coercive dependencies.

The remarks come amid ongoing engagements between New Delhi and Washington, including discussions on a trade agreement aimed at easing US tariffs on Indian goods. India is also set to host the India-AI Impact Summit 2026 in February, the first global AI summit in the Global South, focusing on 'People, Planet and Progress'.

Despite these developments, Congress emphasized that India's exclusion from Pax Silica highlights missed opportunities to secure its position in emerging global technology alliances.

Priyanka Gandhi Questions MGNREGA Renaming Move

Congress MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Saturday questioned the Centre's reported plan to rename the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA), arguing that such a move would waste public funds without benefiting citizens.

Her remarks came after media reports suggested that the Union Cabinet had cleared a Bill to rename the rural employment scheme and increase guaranteed workdays. The programme could be renamed the Poojya Bapu Grameen Rozgar Yojna, with annual employment days rising from 100 to 125.

Priyanka Gandhi asked why the name of a scheme running successfully since 2005 needed to be changed. She explained that renaming would require extensive administrative work, including updating documents and systems, which would add extra costs to the exchequer. "Renaming everything involves a big process and costs money. What is the need for doing this at all?" she questioned.

Backing her view, Congress MP Rajeev Shukla called the move unnecessary and said removing Mahatma Gandhi's name was hard to justify. He added that the term "Bapu" is widely used in the country,

Priyanka Gandhi criticizes Centre's plan to rename MGNREGA, citing unnecessary costs and administrative burdens, sparking political debate between Congress and BJP leaders including in Gujarat.

The BJP defended the proposed renaming, with MP Brij Lal saying it was meant to honour Mahatma Gandhi, not harm his legacy. He added that Gandhi, as the Father of the Nation, deserves such recognition and suggested Priyanka Gandhi's objections were more about removing "Gandhi" from the title than the scheme itself. MGNREGA provides at least 100 days of wage work annually to rural adults over 18, with employment offered within 15 days. Wages are directly paid, ensuring equal pay, and the programme runs nationwide except in fully urban areas.

Government and tribal groups discussed governance, land rights, and security concerns.

Second Round Talks Held On Kuki-Zo Issues

IMPHAL

The Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA), Kuki-Zo tribal groups under the Suspension of Operations (SoO), and Manipur government officials held the second round of tripartite talks in New Delhi on December 12.

Representatives of the Kuki National Organisation (KNO) and United People's Front (UPF) said the discussions focused on demands for a Union Territory with a Legislature for the Kuki-Zo tribal people in Manipur. The first round of talks in November had largely rejected this demand.

The tribal groups emphasized land rights in the hill districts, stating that authority over tribal lands historically rests with village chiefs. They argued that successive Manipur government policies have undermined this traditional governance system. According to the KNO and UPF, a Union Territory with a Legislature would provide a constitutional and institutional framework to protect their ancestral lands and ensure fair governance.

The statement noted that ethnic violence since May 3, 2023, along with the use of state machinery against tribal citizens, has deepened the divide. The organisations claimed that the state government failed to uphold its constitutional duties and that reintegration under the current administrative system is no longer possible.

The tribal groups said Article 371C and the Hill Areas Committee have not effectively protected tribal communities, leaving them vulnerable to land dispossession. They argued that a separate Union Territory remains the only viable solution to ensure security, justice, and long-term peace.

KNO and UPF, representing 23 underground militant outfits with over 2,200 cadres under the 2008 SoO, stated that only a Constitution-based political solution can safeguard the rights and survival of the Kuki-Zo people in Manipur's hill regions.

AIADMK Alleges Karnataka Mekedatu Project Threatens Tamil Nadu

CHENNAI

AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K. Palaniswami on Thursday claimed that the Congress government in Karnataka aims to turn Tamil Nadu into a desert through the Mekedatu dam project.

Speaking on social media platform 'X', Palaniswami said Karnataka is moving ahead with constructing a balancing reservoir at Mekedatu without considering its harmful effects on Tamil Nadu. He also criticised the ruling DMK government in the state, saying it failed to strongly represent Tamil Nadu's interests before the Cauvery Management Authority and the Supreme Court.

"The DMK government under Chief Minister M.K. Stalin did not present strong arguments for Tamil Nadu and acted half-heartedly," Palaniswami wrote. He added that whenever DMK comes to power, it cedes the state's rights on Cauvery river water to Karnataka, calling it a betrayal that "cannot be forgiven."

Palaniswami urged the chief minister to immediately take legal steps to safeguard Tamil Nadu's water rights. He also accused the Karnataka government of pursuing the project solely to harm Tamil Nadu.

The remarks came after Karnataka formed an expert team to accelerate the Mekedatu dam project following a Supreme Court order. The project aims to construct a balancing reservoir across the Cauvery river in Mekedatu to meet Bengaluru's drinking water needs and generate hydroelectric power.

State Water Resources Minister Duraimurugan said the Tamil Nadu government has filed a review petition before the Supreme Court and submitted a detailed plea to the Central Water Commission (CWC) on December 9. The submission highlighted how the Mekedatu project would adversely affect Tamil Nadu and contradict Supreme Court directives.

Palaniswami's comments reflect rising tensions between Tamil Nadu and Karnataka over the long-standing Cauvery river water dispute.

Court Acquits Dileep In 2017 Assault Case

KOCHI

The Ernakulam District and Principal Sessions Court on December 8 acquitted Malayalam actor Dileep in the sensational 2017 sexual assault case, citing lack of evidence and inconsistencies in the prosecution's arguments. Judge Honey M Varghese noted that the prosecution had "miserably" failed to prove any conspiracy between Dileep and prime accused Pulsar Suni.

The case involved the assault on a multilingual actress on February 17, 2017, when the accused allegedly forced their way into her car for two hours. Pulsar Suni sexually assaulted her and recorded the act with the help of others. While six accused, including Suni, were later sentenced to 20 years of rigorous imprisonment, the court found that evidence against Dileep was weak and unsustainable.

The court scrutinised claims that Dileep had instructed Suni to record the victim's gold ring to establish her identity. It observed that this allegation was first introduced in the second charge sheet and lacked corroboration. Statements from the victim and approvers did not consistently support this claim, with the court noting contradictions and changes in testimonies during the trial.

Further, the prosecution's allegations regarding prior plans, including attempts to assault the victim in Goa and instructions dating back to 2013, were found unsupported by reliable evidence. The court highlighted that the visuals themselves clearly revealed the victim's identity, making claims about recording the ring unnecessary.

After reviewing all evidence, Judge Varghese concluded that the charges against Dileep were unproven. The verdict brought closure to a case that had captured national attention and triggered widespread discussions about the Malayalam film industry and criminal justice in Kerala.

Nadda Lays Foundation Stone Of New BJP Office

SHIMLA

BJP national president J.P. Nadda on Saturday laid the foundation stone of the party's new state office in Shimla, calling it a 'Sanskar Kendra' that will energise the organisation.

Nadda said Prime Minister Narendra Modi had emphasised that BJP offices should be modern centres equipped for training, research, and social media activities. He added that of the party's target to build 787 offices nationwide, 617 have already been completed. In Himachal Pradesh, nine offices have been built and 11 are under construction.

Highlighting the party's five Ks – karyakarta (workers), karyakram (programmes), karyakarini (working committee), kosh (funds), and karyalaya (office) – Nadda said the BJP has strong workers, programmes, committees, and is now focusing on constructing offices with the help of funds.

The new office will be located in Majthai near Jubbarhatti Airport in the Shimla Rural assembly segment, about 29 km from the city. Nadda inspected the site, reviewed the building plans presented by state chief Rajiv Bindal, and provided guidance on the office's structure, functional requirements, and future use.

The foundation-laying ceremony, conducted with Vedic chants by five priests, included the 'Kalash Sthapana' (consecration of the urn) and lasted about 45 minutes. Nadda later interacted with party workers over tea, discussing organisational strengthening and upcoming programmes.

Several leaders attended the event, including Leader of Opposition Jai Ram Thakur, State In-charge Shrikant Sharma, Co-In-charge Sanjay Tandon, former Union Minister Anurag Thakur, and former state BJP president Suresh Kashyap. Nadda personally placed the first brick of the new office.

Earlier, on Friday night, he visited Deputy Chief Minister Mukesh Agnihotri's house to congratulate him on his daughter's wedding.

Maharashtra CM Unveils New Scheme For Western Mumbai Redevelopment

NAGPUR

Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Saturday announced a new scheme aimed at speeding up redevelopment projects in Mumbai's western suburbs and supporting the state's "Housing for All" initiative. The scheme specifically targets areas where redevelopment has been stalled due to defence and military restrictions.

These constrained zones include Fanal Zone areas, Juhu Military Transmission Station areas, Kandivali-Malad Central Ordnance Depot (COD) complex, and land within other defence sectors. According to the Chief Minister, redevelopment in these areas has been impossible due to past restrictions.

Under the new scheme, the government will provide free floor space index (FSI) for 300 sq ft tenements for the Economically Weaker Section (EWS) and up to 600 sq ft for Economically Backward Class (EBC) and Lower Income Group (LIG) residents. Incentive FSI will also be granted while basic FSI rights of original landowners remain unaffected.

Unconsumed FSI can be converted into Transferable Development Rights (TDR), which can be sold to fund redevelopment projects. All existing incentives, premiums, and non-refundable benefits under previous regulations will continue under the new scheme.

Fadnavis said the scheme will make previously unfeasible projects viable, offering relief to residents in Juhu, Kandivali, Malad, and other areas. Mumbai BJP chief Ameet Satam welcomed the announcement, noting it will help accelerate much-needed redevelopment in western suburbs.

Historically, redevelopment near flight paths of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj International Airport, and around high-frequency towers, signal stations, and defence establishments, faced severe restrictions, which the new scheme aims to address.

PET REGISTRATION

Chennai Records Nearly One Lakh Pet Dogs

CHENNAI

The Greater Chennai Corporation (GCC) has registered nearly one lakh pet dogs since it began mandatory licensing, anti-rabies vaccinations, and microchipping at its veterinary facilities on October 8. Official data shows 98,523 dogs have been registered, with 54,576 already issued licences and fitted with microchips.

The initiative aims to improve tracking of pets, prevent rabies, and enhance animal welfare in the city. To manage the surge in applications, GCC launched special three-day pet licensing camps on Friday at eight locations: Manali, Madhavaram, Tondiarpet, Ambattur, Anna Nagar, Valasaravakkam, Adyar, and Perungudi. At these camps, pet owners can complete registration, vaccination, microchipping, and receive licences free of cost. The deadline for mandatory licensing has also been extended to December 14, with residents urged to comply to avoid penalties.

GCC Chief Veterinary Officer J. Kamal Hussain said about 3–4% of applications come from outside GCC limits, including neighbouring corporations and village panchayats. Such applications or forms with incomplete vaccination details are rejected. He clarified that non-GCC residents entering city limits without a licence will not be fined.

Microchipping services are offered at five ABC centres—Pulianthope, Royapettah, Meenambakkam, Sholinganallur, and T. Nagar. However, some residents reported long waits and limited staff, with centres handling only 150 dogs daily instead of the intended 400. GCC officials advised owners to visit the special camps to complete licensing and microchipping efficiently, especially when ABC centres are overcrowded.

NGT directs Uttarakhand Chief Secretary to address Ganga floodplain delay

NGT Orders Uttarakhand Chief Secretary To Act

NEW DELHI

The National Green Tribunal (NGT) has directed the Chief Secretary of Uttarakhand to personally oversee and resolve delays in demarcating the Ganga river floodplain, citing nearly two years of inaction despite repeated assurances. The order came during a hearing on a plea alleging construction of residential apartments in Kankhal, Haridwar, within the river's floodplain, raising environmental concerns and potential pollution.

The Tribunal, led by Chairperson Justice Prakash Shrivastava and Expert Member A Senthil Vel, noted that under the River Ganga (Rejuvenation, Protection and Management) Authorities Order, 2016, floodplains must be marked based on the 1:100-year highest flood level. While other Ganga-basin states have adopted a uniform method using a one-metre contour, Uttarakhand has lagged behind.

Earlier, the state had promised completion within six months, but no progress was made. During the hearing, the Executive Engineer of the Irrigation Division, Haridwar, appeared virtually, stating that work could not proceed due to lack of funds. The Tribunal flagged that this issue had not been disclosed earlier and noted inconsistencies in the state's method—whether to use a one-metre contour or a one-metre digital elevation model (DEM).

The NGT expressed concern that prolonged inaction affects public interest and environmental governance. It impleaded the Chief Secretary as a party, directing him to ensure funds do not stall the statutory obligation and to take action against officers responsible for the delay. The Chief Secretary must complete the demarcation within eight weeks and submit a report to the Tribunal. The matter is scheduled for review on February 23, 2026.

Union Minister Promotes Animal Husbandry To Boost Income

RAISEN

Union Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Saturday stressed the importance of animal husbandry in raising farmers' incomes while addressing a Farmers' Seminar and Exhibition Program in Raisen, Madhya Pradesh. He highlighted that transforming farmers' lives requires diversified income sources beyond traditional farming.

Chouhan cited the National Dairy Research Institute, Asia's premier institution in dairy research, as a key supporter for enhancing farmer incomes through livestock-based ventures. "Our goal is to start animal husbandry to increase income and improve implementation of other schemes to raise living standards," he said.

During the event, the Minister handed over kits to 500 farmers and provided training in livestock care, covering aspects such as vaccination, feed management, disease prevention, and milk distribution. He emphasised that merely owning livestock is insufficient; farmers must gain skills to make animal husbandry profitable.

Chouhan also highlighted government initiatives like Laadli Behna Yojna, which transfers funds directly to women, and the Kishan Samaan Vidhi Yojna, which provides Rs 6,000 annually to farmers. He encouraged farmers to adopt ventures such as poultry and dairy to supplement farm income.

The Minister praised the efforts of the National Dairy Research Institute, led by Dheer Singh, for organising the seminar and guiding farmers on utilising government schemes effectively. He underlined that combining expertise, government support, and diversified farming methods is crucial to achieve sustainable income growth, echoing the government's broader goal of Doubling Farmers' Income.

Director of the Police Training Centre, R. Malar Villi, said trainees underwent rigorous indoor and outdoor training to prepare for field challenges. All 1,218 officers will now join the Bihar Police and handle law and order duties across the state.

The ceremony followed tradition but included a deviation during the inspection phase. Normally, only the Chief Minister and DGP accompany the inspection jeep. At Rajgir, CM Nitish Kumar insisted that three ministers—Samrat Choudhary, Vijay Choudhary, and Shravan Kumar—join the inspection alongside him and the DGP. Though initially hesitant, all three ministers boarded the jeep after repeated insistence, sparking discussion in political and bureaucratic circles.

The event marked both a celebration of the new batch and a historic moment for inclusivity in Bihar Police.

US States Challenge Trump's $100,000 H-1B Fee Policy

Bonta said the high fee may strain services, worsen shortages, and cut access

WASHINGTON

Twenty US states filed a lawsuit challenging President Donald Trump's new H-1B visa fee. The states argue the policy is unlawful and harms essential public services.

The lawsuit targets Trump's September decision to raise the H-1B visa fee for highly skilled foreign workers to $100,000. Currently, employers pay between $2,000 and $5,000 in fees. H-1B visas are widely used by hospitals, universities, and public schools.

California Attorney General Rob Bonta said the president lacks authority to impose the fee. "The law allows fees only to cover visa program costs," Bonta explained. He added that high-skilled foreign workers strengthen California's workforce, especially in healthcare and education. In New York, more than a third of healthcare workers are immigrants, while universities and hospitals rely heavily on H-1B professionals.

Bonta warned that the steep fee could burden service providers, worsen staff shortages, and force cuts in vital services. "We are defending Californians' access to world-class universities, schools, and hospitals," he said.

States joining California include New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, New Jersey, and Washington. Supporters of Trump's policy argue that foreign workers take jobs from Americans, while opponents emphasize that H-1B visas address skilled worker shortages.

Separately, the US Chamber of Commerce has also filed lawsuits against the fee. A hearing in Washington, DC, is scheduled next week. Trump's order affects only new H-1B recipients whose sponsoring employers have not paid the $100,000 fee. Existing visa holders or those applying before September 21 are exempt.

ABU DHABI

Today marks two years since the UAE concluded COP28, establishing the historic UAE Consensus, a milestone in global climate cooperation. Guided by the UAE's pragmatic and visionary leadership, the Consensus united 198 countries around a comprehensive set of measures addressing mitigation, adaptation, and climate finance. These measures aim to reduce emissions, decarbonize industries, and protect the most vulnerable populations. Key targets included tripling renewable energy capacity by 2030, doubling energy efficiency, and halting deforestation. COP28 also created the first-ever fund for loss and damage.

Beyond negotiations, COP28 launched the Presidential Action Agenda, engaging the private sector in practical decarbonization efforts. Landmark initiatives such as the Oil & Gas Decarbonization Charter (OGDC) brought together international and national oil companies representing 40% of global oil production to eliminate methane emissions and cut carbon from operations. Additionally, ALTÉRRA, the world's largest climate-focused investment fund, was unveiled with a goal to mobilize $250 billion by 2030 for global climate solutions.

The outcomes of COP28 reflected the UAE's role as a connector, convening governments, industry, finance, and civil society to build consensus. By fostering inclusive dialogue and partnership, the UAE demonstrated that collective action can drive global progress while leaving no one behind.

As energy demand continues to rise, the UAE Consensus remains a blueprint for pragmatic and multilateral action.

Families Urge Authorities To Locate Missing Students Quetta

QUETTA

Families of underage students missing in Quetta, Balochistan, have urged authorities to trace their children amid continuing military operations and arrests in the region. Local sources reported that new operations took place in Jiwani, a coastal town in Gwadar district, leading to multiple detentions.

At a press conference at the Quetta Press Club, Samrosh Baloch said that Pakistani forces had taken several young students from their homes during raids months ago, leaving their whereabouts unknown. "For years, we have endured raids without warning. Young boys are taken, remain missing for months, and are sometimes released without any explanation," she said.

The missing minors include Hairbiyar Baloch, Afzal Baloch, Beebarg Qambrani, Noor Muhammad, and Hammal Qambrani. Families reported that none of the boys have been presented in court or formally charged. Samrosh Baloch also shared that members of her family have been detained and later released on several occasions.

On December 6, Pakistani forces conducted search operations in her area, raiding homes for several hours but finding no illegal items. In Jiwani tehsil, operations targeted Sadiq Bazaar, Kaldaan, and Gapt, with seven men—including Tufail, Jamshaid, and Zohaib—taken to undisclosed locations. Two labourers from Kuntani were also detained.

Additional operations were reported in Gresha and Ornach areas of Khuzdar, where several young men were apprehended. These incidents highlight a continued pattern of enforced disappearances in Balochistan, raising concerns among families and human rights observers who call for the immediate tracing and release of the missing students.

Indonesia Floods Claim Over Thousand Lives, Rescue Ongoing

JAKARTA

The death toll from floods and landslides across three provinces on Indonesia's Sumatra Island has surpassed 1,000, with 218 people still missing, according to the National Disaster Management Agency (BNPB). The disasters have caused widespread destruction of infrastructure, including 1,200 public facilities, 219 health centres, 581 schools, 434 houses of worship, 290 offices, and 145 bridges.

Abdul Muhari, head of BNPB's Data and Information Center, said verification of victims' names and addresses is ongoing at the sub-district level, with cross-checking against civil records to ensure accurate data.

President Prabowo Subianto visited affected areas in Aceh on Friday and pledged government support for relief and recovery efforts. "Together we will improve this situation. The government will step in and help with everything," he said, urging citizens to stay strong while restoration continues. He also expressed hope that community activities, including children's education, can resume soon.

Earlier this week, Subianto chaired a meeting on disaster response, instructing joint operations by the military, police, search and rescue agencies, BNPB, and local governments to accelerate aid delivery, maintain security, and restore connectivity to cut-off areas.

Experts warn that climate change is intensifying extreme weather in Asia. Hijrah Saputra, a disaster management lecturer at Airlangga University, said early warning systems have not reached remote villages, and environmental rehabilitation remains inadequate. He emphasized the need for better spatial planning, watershed management, and integrated early warning systems to reduce future casualties.

The ongoing floods highlight Indonesia's urgent need to strengthen disaster preparedness and resilience to protect communities from increasingly severe climate-driven events.

POLIO ALERT

Rawalpindi Detects Poliovirus Before Vaccination Drive

RAWALPINDI

Ahead of Punjab's final anti-polio vaccination drive of 2025, two environmental samples from Rawalpindi district tested positive for poliovirus, raising renewed focus on containment efforts. The four-day campaign is scheduled from December 15 to 18.

The World Health Organization collected the samples, one from a nullah in Safdarabad near Pirwadhai and another from Dhoke Dalal along the Rawalpindi-Islamabad border. District Health Authority CEO Ehsan Ghani said the virus was genetically linked to an active cluster circulating in Rahimyar Khan and Karachi. He added that the test results were "not worrisome" but noted that results from last month's campaign would reflect in the December environmental samples.

Preparations for the campaign have been finalised, with an important coordination meeting held at the Deputy Commissioner's Office to review arrangements for team formation, security, and monitoring. The meeting was attended by health officials, WHO representatives, and district authorities. Deputy Commissioner Hassan Waqar Cheema stressed the need for coordinated efforts from all institutions to eradicate polio. He directed that door-to-door access for vaccination teams must be ensured and warned of strict action against negligent staff.

Public cooperation is being emphasised, with authorities urging parents to support vaccination teams to protect children from lifelong disabilities. The district administration instructed all departments to provide full support and supervision to ensure smooth campaign execution across urban and rural areas.

The four-day campaign aims to vaccinate nearly 23.3 million children under five in Punjab. Around 200,000 frontline workers will be deployed, with more than 10,000 in Rawalpindi alone, targeting over one million children. Punjab authorities reiterated their commitment to ending polio and stressed that every child must receive the two life-saving drops to prevent the crippling disease.

Commerce Ministry highlights trade talks startup boom

Union Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal stated India has 2,01,335 startups, generating 21 lakh jobs, with nearly half having a woman director

NEW DELHI

Union Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal shared updates on trade talks, startup growth, and export plans over the past ten days. He said India has crossed a major milestone with more than two lakh government-recognised startups across the country.

The ministry outlined progress on free trade agreements and bilateral engagements through meetings with key global partners. Goyal said discussions were held with European Union Trade Commissioner Maros Sefcovic to guide negotiating teams toward an early conclusion of the India-EU free trade agreement.

He also met Claudia Sanhueza, Chile's treasury undersecretary, after the fourth round of India-Chile CEPA talks. Both sides reviewed progress and agreed to work toward finalising the pact soon. Another meeting with Russia's Economic Development Minister Maxim Reshetnikov focused on cooperation in food, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, textiles, and automobiles.

Goyal said the recognised startups now total 2,01,335, creating over 21 lakh jobs nationwide. Nearly half of these startups have at least one woman director, showing strong female participation in entrepreneurship.

The minister also announced that Dakshina Kannada has been named a District Export Hub. Seafood and cashew were added as focus export products to boost local industry, improve value-added work, and open new market opportunities.

Earlier, Goyal said Kolhapuri chappal exports could reach one billion dollars annually after Italian fashion brand Prada planned limited production of Kolhapuri-inspired sandals in India. He also reaffirmed India's commitment to stronger trade ties with Europe, including deeper cooperation with Italy in technology, defence, textiles, agriculture, research, and food processing. These efforts aim to strengthen growth, exports, jobs, and India's global economic position in coming years, officials said today.

Indian markets end week on positive note

MUMBAI

Indian equity markets ended the week on a cautiously bullish note, supported by hopes of renewed foreign institutional investor (FII) inflows after the US Federal Reserve announced a 25-basis-point rate cut. Analysts said supportive global central bank policies and steady domestic investments helped sentiment despite global uncertainties.

Benchmark indices Nifty and Sensex posted marginal weekly declines of 0.36 per cent and 0.17 per cent, closing at 26,046 and 85,267, respectively, while midcap and smallcap indices underperformed. The week began weakly due to rupee depreciation and negative global cues, but optimism returned after the Fed's move, aiding a strong rebound in the final session.

Sectoral performance was mixed, with IT stocks lagging and PSU banks, realty, and consumer durables seeing buying interest. Analysts remain cautiously optimistic, tracking FII flows, inflation, and global cues.

November CPI inflation rose to 0.71% from 0.25%, driven by higher fuel, smaller food declines, and mixed miscellaneous trends

GST cuts expected to lower inflation significantly

NEW DELHI

The recent reduction in goods and services tax (GST) is likely to bring down consumer price index (CPI) inflation by around 25 basis points in the September–November 2025 period and could reduce it by 35 basis points in the current fiscal year, according to a new State Bank of India (SBI) report.

The report noted that Q1 FY27 inflation forecasts have been revised down by 100 basis points to 3.9 per cent from 4.9 per cent. Similarly, Q3 FY26 estimates were adjusted to 3.8 per cent from 0.6 per cent earlier. SBI highlighted that continued lower food inflation, aided by higher kharif production, healthy rabi sowing, adequate reservoir levels, and favorable soil moisture, will support subdued price pressures. Based on these factors, FY26 inflation is projected at 1.8 per cent and FY27 at 3.4 per cent.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) also cut its FY26 inflation projection to 2 per cent from the previous estimate of 2.6 per cent. The central bank kept its options open for future rate adjustments but expects the repo rate of 5.25 per cent to remain lower for an extended period.

November CPI inflation rose slightly to 0.71 per cent from 0.25 per cent in October, driven by smaller food price declines and higher fuel and light costs at 2.32 per cent. Miscellaneous items saw mixed trends, with personal care and effects rising due to higher gold prices, while other items declined.

Excluding gold, headline CPI recorded a negative growth of 0.12 per cent year-on-year, highlighting the fluctuating trends in rural and urban food prices, including cereals, milk products, beverages, and prepared meals. Analysts said GST cuts, along with favorable agricultural conditions, will continue to ease inflation pressures and support economic stability through FY26.

FDI insurance reform expected to drive innovation

NEW DELHI

Industry leaders on Saturday welcomed the Union Cabinet's approval of the Insurance Laws Amendment Bill 2025, which raises the foreign direct investment limit in insurance companies to 100 per cent. They said the move will attract fresh capital, encourage innovation, and help expand insurance coverage across India.

The amendment allows composite licences, lowers capital requirements for new insurers, and introduces perpetual registration for intermediaries. Industry experts said these steps will simplify rules, improve competition, and make it easier for new players to enter the market.

PB Fintech Joint Group Chief Executive Officer Sarbvir Singh said the reform brings clarity and long term confidence to a sector that supports financial security. He said global investment and expertise can speed up innovation, improve customer experience, and raise service quality across regions.

RenewBuy Co founder and Chief Executive Officer Balachander Sekhar called the bill a forward looking reform that sets the foundation for long term growth. He said composite licensing will allow customer focused protection, while easier capital norms can help companies serve underserved markets.

Sekhar added that access to global technology and best practices will improve risk assessment, speed up claim settlement, and strengthen customer engagement. He said perpetual registration will reduce compliance burden and allow firms to focus on expanding reach.

Aon India Chief Executive Officer Rishi Mehra said the decision to allow full foreign ownership is a major step toward building a strong and competitive insurance ecosystem. He added that the reforms support India's journey toward a secure, inclusive, and future ready economy. Industry leaders believe these changes will deepen penetration and strengthen trust nationwide further.

SAIL records strong Nov sales growth surge

NEW DELHI

Steel Authority of India Limited (SAIL) reported a strong sales performance in November 2025 with a year-on-year growth of 27 per cent, showing rising demand across markets.

The public sector steel major said its total sales rose sharply during the month, supported by higher domestic dispatches and improved distribution efficiency.

Retail sales volumes jumped 69 per cent to 0.14 million tonnes in November, compared with 0.084 million tonnes in the same month last year.

The company said growth was broad-based across product categories and channels, led by domestic saleable steel, road movement, and faster door deliveries from warehouses.

SAIL also emerged as the country's largest seller of TMT bars during the month, reflecting strong market presence.

Strong momentum was also seen during the April–November 2025 period, when cumulative sales reached 12.7 million tonnes, marking a 14 per cent rise over last year's levels.

The company said this performance came despite global price pressure, shifting demand, trade uncertainties, and ongoing geopolitical tensions affecting the steel sector.

Retail channel sales during the eight-month period rose to 0.97 million tonnes, up 14 per cent compared with the same period last year.

SAIL added that nationwide brand promotion campaigns and customer-focused strategies helped strengthen visibility and market connect.

The company said its teams continued to focus on service, logistics, and timely supply to meet customer needs.

In October, SAIL supplied the entire requirement of special grade steel for INS Androth, commissioned into the Indian Navy.

The company said the supply marked an important step toward India's self-reliance goals in the defence manufacturing sector.

FINANCE FEEDBACK FOCUS

Government strengthens BFSI grievance redressal system

NEW DELHI

The government is taking major steps to improve grievance redressal in the banking, financial services, and insurance (BFSI) sector, officials said on Saturday. The Department of Financial Services (DFS) has been spearheading initiatives to ensure faster and more effective resolution of customer complaints.

Finance Ministry officials said that the Secretary (FS) personally reviews 20 randomly selected grievances every month. These sessions allow citizens to present their issues directly in the presence of Chairmen, Managing Directors, and CEOs of the concerned organisations. So far, 15 such meetings have been conducted, analysing 300 grievances to improve the quality of resolutions. Similar reviews are also conducted by Joint Secretaries and top officials within financial institutions.

The first round of Centralised Public Grievance Redress and Monitoring System (CPGRAM) workshops for public sector banks was completed in 2025, focusing on effective complaint resolution. Banks have also been advised to use technology to collect feedback from branch customers to enhance service quality.

Since June 2025, the DFS has introduced a ranking system for public and private sector banks, as well as public sector insurance companies, based on the timeliness and quality of grievance handling. Officials said this initiative has significantly improved the responsiveness of institutions. Rankings for private insurers are expected to be introduced soon.

The government said these measures are enhancing the grievance redressal framework by improving turnaround times, ensuring transparent communication, and increasing customer service training. Officials added that continuous monitoring and top-level engagement are strengthening trust between customers and financial institutions, making the BFSI sector more accountable and customer-centric nationwide.

THE DARK Side of Digital Influence

The digital landscape has transformed how information flows in India. With over 460 million YouTube users, the platform has become a dominant force in news dissemination and public discourse. Yet beneath the veneer of democratized media lies a troubling reality: a growing number of content creators who weaponize their platforms for blackmail, extortion, and harassment. While not all YouTubers engage in such practices, the minority who do have become a genuine menace to society, blurring the lines between legitimate journalism and criminal activity.

A CASE STUDY IN CONTROVERSY: SAVUKKU SHANKAR

The recent arrest of Tamil YouTuber 'Savukku' Shankar exemplifies the complex issues surrounding social media influencers in India. On December 13, 2024, Chennai police arrested Shankar and five members of his team following allegations from a film producer. According to police reports, the producer claimed that Shankar's team physically assaulted him, extorted two lakh rupees, and demanded substantial additional payments to remove allegedly defamatory videos.

Shankar vehemently denied these accusations, calling them "fabricated" and insisting in a pre-arrest video that he had never met the film producer in question. His response highlights a pattern that has become all too familiar: accusations, counter-accusations, and a murky truth that often remains elusive in the court of public opinion.

This isn't Shankar's first brush with the law. Earlier in May 2024, he was arrested for making allegedly derogatory comments about women police officers. He was subsequently detained under the stringent Goondas Act for ganja possession, though the Supreme Court later ordered his release and protection from coercive action in multiple cases. His history reveals a controversial figure who operates in the grey zone between whistleblower journalism and provocative commentary, a zone where many modern YouTubers find themselves.

The Extortion Epidemic

The problem extends far beyond individual cases. Across India, a disturbing pattern has emerged where individuals claiming to be content creators use their platforms as instruments of coercion. The mechanisms vary, but the outcome remains consistent: victims paying substantial sums under threats of public exposure, defamation, or reputational damage. Consider the sophisticated sextortion schemes that have plagued the platform. Delhi Police arrested a 27-year-old man who impersonated both a YouTube employee and a police officer to extort money from victims.

His modus operandi was chillingly effective: establish contact through social media, record compromising footage during WhatsApp video calls, then demand payment to prevent public release. One victim alone paid over 25 lakh rupees across multiple transactions. This wasn't an isolated incident but part of a systematic operation targeting hundreds of people nationwide.

BLACKMAIL, DEFAMATION, AND MURDER

The consequences of unethical content creation extend beyond financial fraud. In extreme cases, YouTubers have been implicated in contributing to violence or being targets of violence themselves. The line between provocative commentary and incitement becomes dangerously thin when creators intentionally inflame communal tensions or target individuals with harassment campaigns. Bengal saw influencers become embroiled in a blackmail scandal involving private videos, with accusations of extortion reaching into lakhs of rupees. Such cases demonstrate how digital influence can facilitate traditional crimes at unprecedented scale—a single leak or threat can reach millions within hours.

More concerning still is how some YouTubers have used their platforms to directly threaten or extort specific individuals. By publicizing personal information, making accusations without evidence, or threatening to release damaging content, they create conditions where victims feel compelled to pay rather than face public humiliation or professional destruction.

The Journalist-YouTuber DISTINCTION

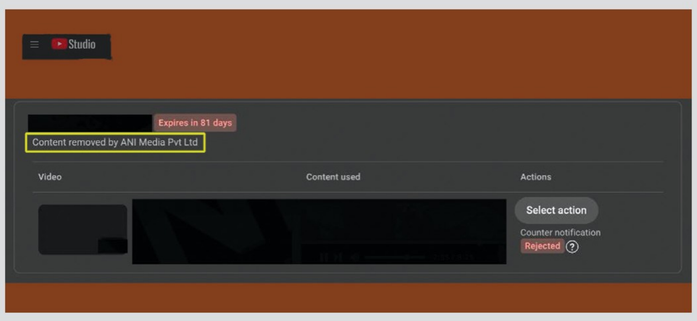
This brings us to a critical question: what separates a YouTuber from a journalist? The Madras High Court provided clarity in a landmark ruling, observing that social media personalities regularly commenting on public affairs enjoy the same constitutional protections as traditional journalists under Article 19(1)(a). This recognition grants YouTubers significant freedom of speech protections.

However, with such rights come responsibilities—responsibilities that many self-proclaimed digital journalists ignore. Traditional journalists operate under established ethical frameworks: verification of facts, balanced reporting, protection of sources, and accountability to editorial boards. They face professional consequences for ethical violations and legal consequences for defamation or false reporting.

YouTubers, conversely, often operate without editorial oversight, fact-checking protocols, or professional accountability structures. Anyone with a smartphone and internet connection can claim the mantle of "citizen journalist" while engaging in practices that would end a traditional journalist's career. This lack of gatekeeping has democratized information but also opened floodgates for misinformation, sensationalism, and outright criminality.

When Copyright Becomes a Weapon

Perhaps more insidious are cases where content creators weaponize the very mechanisms designed to protect intellectual property. Multiple prominent YouTubers have alleged that larger organizations use copyright strikes as extortion tools, demanding lakhs of rupees to reverse strikes or grant licensing for clips lasting mere seconds. These allegations spotlight a vulnerability in digital platforms: automated copyright enforcement systems can be manipulated by those with resources and legal teams to silence criticism or extract payment. Small independent creators find themselves facing channel takedowns unless they pay substantial sums—amounts they can ill afford but must consider given that their livelihoods depend on platform access.



The Ethics Vacuum

The fundamental problem lies in an ethics vacuum. Senior journalists who have transitioned to YouTube bring decades of experience, editorial judgment, and internalized professional standards. But the platform has also enabled individuals with no journalistic training or ethical foundation to amass large followings by pandering to biases, manufacturing controversies, and prioritizing virality over veracity. Shailesh Shrivastava, contributing editor at Mongabay India, articulates this concern: experienced journalists who switch to YouTube follow journalism ethics in their work, but another breed of channels shows sensationalist content, breaches privacy, and creates content aimed solely at maximizing views.

This distinction matters enormously. Journalism serves democracy by holding power accountable and informing citizens. Sensationalism serves the creator's bank account by exploiting outrage, fear, and tribal loyalties. The former requires courage, integrity, and skill.

Addressing these issues presents significant challenges. India's digital media landscape operates in a regulatory grey area. The proposed Broadcasting Services (Regulation) Bill has sparked fierce debate, with creators arguing it threatens free speech while governments insist oversight is necessary to prevent harm.

The tension is real: over-regulation risks stifling the very independence that makes YouTube valuable as an alternative to co-opted mainstream media. Under-regulation allows criminals to hide behind constitutional protections while engaging in extortion and fraud. Current legal frameworks struggle to keep pace with digital realities. Copyright law lacks clear thresholds for fair use of brief clips. Defamation laws weren't designed for viral content that can destroy reputations within hours. Extortion laws don't adequately address threats mediated through platform algorithms and automated systems.

The Path Forward

Solving this crisis requires a multi-faceted approach that balances freedom with accountability. First, platforms must refine their enforcement mechanisms to prevent weaponization of copyright strikes and other tools. Transparent appeal processes, penalties for false claims, and human review for high-stakes decisions would reduce opportunities for abuse.

Second, legal frameworks must evolve to address digital-age crimes more effectively. This includes clearer definitions of what constitutes fair use, streamlined processes for addressing defamation in viral contexts, and specific provisions addressing digital extortion schemes. Third, the creator community needs self-regulation. Established journalists-turned-YouTubers should develop and promote ethical guidelines for digital content creation. Professional associations could offer accreditation that distinguishes serious journalism from mere content creation. Fourth, media literacy education must become a priority. Audiences need tools to distinguish credible reporting from manipulation, to verify claims before sharing, and to recognize when content is designed to exploit rather than inform.Finally, law enforcement must receive training and resources to handle digital crimes effectively. Cases like Savukku Shankar's arrests demonstrate that traditional policing approaches struggle with the complexities of online influence, fair speech protections, and digital evidence. The YouTuber phenomenon in India represents both promise and peril. It has broken monopolies on information, given voice to marginalized perspectives, and created new pathways for talented individuals to reach audiences. Journalists forced out of co-opted mainstream media have found YouTube a lifeline for continuing important work.But the same technological democratization that enables these positive outcomes also empowers bad actors. Those who see influence as an opportunity for extortion, who use platforms to settle scores or extract payments, who hide criminality behind claims of journalism—these individuals undermine the legitimate work of thousands of honest creators and erode public trust in digital media. The solution isn't to paint all YouTubers with the same brush or to implement draconian controls that stifle free expression. Rather, it's to recognize that with the power of mass communication comes responsibility—a responsibility that must be enforced through a combination of platform policies, legal frameworks, professional standards, and societal expectations.

Lee Shines as Hobart Hurricanes Win Maiden WBBL

After Wyatt-Hodge fell, Lee dominated Alana King with successive sixes and boundaries, sealing victory and a record-breaking unbeaten half-century

HOBART

Lizelle Lee delivered a memorable, record-breaking performance to guide Hobart Hurricanes to their first-ever Women's Big Bash League title, as they outplayed Perth Scorchers in a one-sided final on Saturday.

After a disciplined bowling display restricted the Scorchers to a modest 137 for 5, the Hurricanes completed the chase with ease, winning with five overs to spare. Lee led from the front, launching the innings with three boundaries in the opening over. Danielle Wyatt-Hodge added momentum at the top, helping Hobart race to 24 without loss in the first two overs and putting the Scorchers immediately under pressure.

Wyatt-Hodge fell in the sixth over, but Lee continued to dominate the bowling attack. Nat Sciver-Brunt provided valuable support, striking timely boundaries to keep the chase firmly in Hobart's control.

The turning point came when Lee took on Alana King, smashing consecutive sixes followed by well-placed boundaries in the next over.

Brief scores

Perth Scorchers Women 137/5 in 20 overs (Sophie Devine 34, Beth Mooney 33; Linsey Smith 2-8) lost to Hobart Hurricanes Women 141/2 in 15 overs (Lizelle Lee 77*, Nat Sciver-Brunt 35; Amy Edgar 1-13) by 8 wickets.

The burst of runs brought up Lee's unbeaten half-century, effectively sealing the contest, while also setting a new record for the highest individual score in a WBBL final.

Earlier, Perth Scorchers struggled for fluency after opting to bat first. Katie Mack fell early, while Beth Mooney, despite getting several chances, was dismissed for 33 by Heather Graham. Sophie Devine and Paige Scholfield attempted a late push, but regular breakthroughs ensured the Scorchers fell short of a competitive total.

Trump Honors 1980 Miracle on Ice Heroes With Congressional Medals at White House

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump paid tribute to members of the United States men's ice hockey team that achieved the historic Miracle on Ice victory over the Soviet Union at the 1980 Winter Olympic Games in Lake Placid. The President hosted several players from the gold medal-winning squad at the Oval Office, marking one of the most celebrated moments in American sporting history.

During the ceremony, Trump signed a bill authorising the awarding of congressional medals to the team in recognition of their extraordinary achievement. The former players arrived wearing white cowboy hats, a nod to the hats famously worn by the team during the opening ceremony of the 1980 Winter Olympics. Trump briefly donned one of the hats himself, drawing smiles and applause from those in attendance.

This was one of the biggest moments that I've ever seen in sports, Trump said, praising the players for delivering one of the most storied athletic wins of all time. He described the victory as a defining moment that transcended sport and became a symbol of national pride during a tense period of the Cold War.

The event was attended by 13 members of the iconic team, including captain Mike Eruzione, goaltender Jim Craig, and forward Buzz Schneider. Also present was the son of the late head coach Herb Brooks, whose leadership and belief in his young team were widely credited as key factors behind the historic triumph.

Usman Khawaja Confident of Ashes Role Despite Selection Debate Ahead of Third Test

ADELAIDE

Australian opener Usman Khawaja has played down speculation surrounding his omission from the playing XI, even as debate intensifies over his absence from the third Ashes Test against England at the Adelaide Oval. Despite being left out after Australia secured victories in the first two Tests with a new opening combination, the veteran batter remains confident of his place in the squad and his ability to contribute.

Khawaja, who will turn 39 on the second day of the Adelaide Test, stated that he is 100 percent fit and fully prepared to play if selected. However, he acknowledged that the final decision rests with the team management, leaving his immediate future uncertain. Australia have enjoyed success with Travis Head and Jake Weatherald at the top of the order, adding further intrigue to the selection call.

Unfazed by rumours regarding his playing future, the 85-Test veteran emphasised that he still feels valued within the team environment. I'm still valued by the team, still asked to be here to play, so I'm here, Khawaja said in remarks quoted by Cricket Australia. He added that his focus remains on enjoying his cricket and contributing professionally rather than clinging on for longevity's sake.

Khawaja highlighted his adaptability and experience across formats, underlining that his career record reflects sustained consistency rather than short-term performances. He dismissed suggestions that comments made by Head had any bearing on his mindset, reiterating that he remains fully committed to representing Australia. I love playing for Australia, I'm still very committed. I train hard, I do everything right, he asserted.

The left-hander also made it clear that external opinions do not concern him. According to Khawaja, professionalism means focusing on preparation and performance, not speculation outside the squad.

Radhika Apte Faces Backlash Over Comments On Violence

Actress Radhika Apte recently found herself at the center of controversy following her remarks on the increasing prevalence of graphic violence in Indian cinema. Expressing personal discomfort with violent content, Radhika, who is now a mother and lives in London with her husband Benedict Taylor, said she would not want to raise her child in an environment where entertainment relies heavily on brutality. Her comments quickly sparked debate across social media platforms. Critics accused the actress of hypocrisy, pointing to her own body of work that includes violent films such as Rakta Charitra, Badlapur, and the popular web series Sacred Games, all known for intense and graphic scenes. Many argued that her past choices contradict her current stance. However, supporters came to her defense, stating that her comments were rooted in her perspective as a parent rather than her professional identity as an actor. They emphasized that personal growth and changing priorities, especially after motherhood, can influence opinions without undermining past work. The controversy gained further traction as her remarks coincided with the box office success of Dhurandhar, a film noted for its graphic violence. Though she did not reference the film directly, many interpreted her statements as a subtle critique. The debate has reignited discussions on violence, responsibility, and storytelling in Indian cinema.

Shane Nigam's Haal Gets Court Nod For Christmas Release

Shane Nigam's much-awaited film Haal is finally set to release this Christmas after clearing legal hurdles. The High Court has approved the film's screening, overturning several censorship cuts earlier demanded by the Central Board of Film Certification (CBFC).

Directed by Veera, Haal faced controversy when the CBFC ordered six cuts, including a scene showing beef biryani consumption. The filmmakers challenged the directive, and a single bench revoked four of the cuts. Appeals by the CBFC and Catholic Congress were later dismissed, with the division bench upholding the earlier verdict. Judges reportedly watched the film in full before ruling, noting they enjoyed the film.

To mark the clearance, the makers unveiled a new poster carrying the line, Finally reaching audiences with court approval. The poster also features headlines from the controversy, symbolizing the film's journey to release.

The movie stars Shane Nigam alongside Sakshi Vaidya in the lead, with a strong ensemble cast including Johnny Antony, Vineeth Beepkumar, Joy Mathew, Sangeetha Madhavan Nair, Nishanth Sagar, and others.

Haal will release in multiple languages—Malayalam, Hindi, Telugu, Tamil, and Kannada—expanding its reach beyond Kerala. The film's Christmas release is expected to draw significant attention, especially after Nigam's recent success with the action hit RDX.

With the legal battles now behind it, Haal is ready to present its story to audiences nationwide, making its release one of the season's most talked-about events.
